Resignations from the Order of Canada in protest of Morgentaler appointment

The Governor General accepted the resignations of the above individuals from the Order of Canada.

Bosisio, Chauvin, Larre, Racine and Richard resigned over the appointment of abortion provider Dr. Henry Morgentaler to the Order of Canada in 2008.

Not sure why Camille Limoges resigned except "personal reasons".

David Ahenakew served in the Canadian Forces from 1951 to 1967 and received the Canadian Forces Decoration (CD) for 12 years service plus the Canadian Korean Medal, the Canadian Volunteer Medal for Korea and the United Nations Medal for Korea, the Special Services Medal with bar NATO for service in Germany, the Peacekeeping Medal and the United Nations Emergency Medal (UNEF) for service in Egypt with the Canadian Peacekeeping Force there.

After leaving the army, he became active in the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations and helped found the Saskatchewan Indian Federated College. He received the Order of Canada in 1979: "A member of a United Nations committee and of the World Indigenous Peoples Council. His many years of service to Indians and Métis in Saskatchewan culminated in his election as the Chief of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians, which has revoluntionized Indian education in his province." In 1982, he was elected Chief of the Assembly of First Nations in Canada.

On December 13, 2002, Ahenakew gave a speech to an FSIN group, which was attended by James Parker, a reporter from the Saskatoon StarPhoenix. He made references to "goddamn immigrants" in Canada during his speech. During a question-and-answer session following his lecture, Ahenakew said that Jews were a disease in Germany and that Hitler was trying to "clean up Europe" when he "fried six million of those guys." He also stated that Israel and the United States (specifically mentioning George W. Bush) were going to start the next world war. The Germans used to tell me, and I got to know them well because I played soccer against them and with them and so forth. But they used to tell me that you guys are blessed. What we know about the Indians in Canada. They are blessed. But that blessing is being destroyed by your immigrants that are going over there. Especially the Jews, they said. The Second World War was started by the Jews and the Third World War, whatever it is, is between Israel and the Arab countries. I was there as well. But there's going to be a war because the Israelis and the "Bushies" - you know, the bully, the bigot in the United States - tells you that if you're not with me you're against me.

After the session concluded, the StarPhoenix reporter asked him to clarify these remarks, and he explained that while serving in the army after the war, Germans had told him the Jews had provoked the war. The StarPhoenix quoted him as further saying: The Jews damn near owned all of Germany prior to the war. That's why Hitler came in. He was going to make damn sure that the Jews didn't take over Germany, or even Europe. That's why he fried six million of those guys, you know. Jews would have owned the goddamned world. And look what they're doing now, they're killing people in countries. The reporter asked how Ahenakew could justify the Holocaust. The StarPhoenix quoted Ahenakew as replying: How else do you get rid of a disease like that, that's going to take over, that's going to dominate?

Ahenakew was later convicted in July 2005 of willfully promoting hatred against Jews. Ahenakew apologized for the remarks, saying they did not represent his beliefs and that he was "caught up in the heat of the moment. I was attempting to spark debate on what has been happening to our First Nations people." At his trial, he later recanted his apology and blamed his outburst on his diabetes, some wine and a change in medication, a defense that was rejected by the court and he was subsequently fined $1,000. Despite this, he retained his belief that the Jews started the Second World War. Jewish groups, aboriginals and politicians later called for Ahenakew's membership in the Order of Canada to be revoked. The Governor General revoked Ahenakew's membership in 2005.

In June 2006, the decision was overturned by the Saskatchewan Court of Queen's Bench on the grounds that the trial judge failed to properly take into account that the remarks were uttered in the midst of an angry confrontation with a reporter, and therefore may not have constituted a "willful" promotion of hatred. A new trial was ordered. He was retried in Saskatoon in 2008. In February 2009, a Saskatchewan Provincial Court Judge acquitted Ahenakew because his statements, which "revolting, disgusting and untrue" did not show an intent to incite hatred.

16/03/02	SINGH, T. Sher	Mr	Columnist Toronto Star/Sikh-Cdn Community	CM
28/03/09	Removed from Order	Mr	CM Cancelled - Law licence cancelled	--

The 22-year career of a prominent Sikh lawyer and member of the Order of Canada was snuffed out in less than 15 minutes yesterday – the time it took a disciplinary panel to find T. Sher Singh guilty of professional misconduct. The Law Society of Upper Canada committee drummed Singh out of the profession on his 58th birthday. But the Guelph lawyer and long-time race relations advocate was not on hand to witness his disbarment and had no legal representation at the hearing. "I don't know how to deal with this. I can't deal with it," he said in a telephone interview on Monday.

Singh said he was "burnt out" from more than 20 years of combined stresses, including the litigation process with its seemingly never-ending court battles, his involvement in numerous community organizations and the rigours of being a single parent.

But Kitchener resident Cathleen Adams, a social worker at the Community Care Access Centre in Guelph, had little patience for her former lawyer yesterday.

"I want to do my part to make sure Mr. Singh cannot act in our province as a lawyer," she told the panel convened in Toronto. Testifying over the telephone from Guelph, Adams said she and her husband each paid Singh $1,500 to mediate their separation issues in 2005, but he never followed through on a promise to draw up a formal separation agreement and ignored subsequent calls. Leaving them in the lurch has cost them untold dollars and stress, said Adams.

Singh was a member of the Ontario Police Commission and a 1989 provincial task force on race relations and policing.

On Monday, he said he had assumed the misconduct complaints against him were resolved more than a year ago, when he notified the law society by letter that he was resigning his membership. "I tried desperately ... to tell them, for health reasons, they needed to bear with me," he said.

"I asked them not to suspend me, to give me time. They absolutely refused ... and I finally threw up my hands."

But disciplinary panel members James Caskey and Nicholas Pustina, both lawyers, along with Baljit Sikand, a Toronto limo company owner who serves as a law society "lay benchman," were told that Singh was not eligible to resign because the disciplinary process was already underway. The panel also accepted a book of documents from disciplinary counsel Lisa Freeman, showing the law society sent letters to Singh, at his law office and a post office box for more than a year. The law society was trying to obtain his response to allegations that he failed to serve clients, mishandled trust funds, misappropriated $2,000 from a client and continued to practise after being suspended in November 2005, the hearing was told. Six of Singh's former clients testified yesterday, among them Charu Shankar, who hired him in 2005 to draw up a marital separation agreement. She sought out Singh because he was well regarded and recommended by a friend.

"Mr. Singh was a respected member of the community," Shankar said.

"He received the Order of Canada. He seemed to be a public figure. I thought I could trust a lawyer like Mr. Singh." Shankar said the situation was urgent because she was unemployed and needed financial support from her husband while she looked for a job. But Shankar said that after she gave Singh $3,000 as a retainer, he did no work on her case, except send an introductory letter to her husband. Singh ignored most of her phone messages and emails, failed to return her money and never provided her with an account, she said. After Singh was suspended by the law society in Nov. 15, he was ordered to repay $4,000 to Virginia Bodendistel, who hired him in connection with a medical malpractice lawsuit. Testifying by phone from Halifax, where she was vacationing, Bodendistel told the panel yesterday that she's never seen the money.

Singh told the Star he represented Bodendistel and her son free of charge in the case for several years. The money was meant to cover only out-of-pocket expenditures, of which there were many, he said on Monday, adding the terms of their "contingency agreement" stipulated that his fees would be paid out of any settlement. "I personally feel the best work I have done in the last 20 years was on that file," he said. "If anything, and I say this with the utmost humility, if anything, I deserve a medal." Although the case meant going up against a large downtown law firm, Singh said he won several preliminary motions "despite heavy odds" against him. Singh was invested as a member of the Order of Canada on Aug. 31, 2002. The citation from the Governor General's office said the honour was in recognition of his "vast record of public service," including his work promoting harmony among people of different races and religions.

The citation, which mentioned his freelance commentaries for the Star and other media, called him "a symbol" of the importance of mediation and understanding in society.

MEMBERS ORDER of CANADA (CM)
MEMBERSHIP TERMINATED by the GOVERNOR GENERAL

08/03/97	BARWIN, B. Norman	Dr	Gynecologist Ottawa / Family Unit	CM
03/08/13	Removed from Order	Dr	CM Cancelled Physician Licence suspended	--

Dr. Bernard Norman Barwin, an acclaimed Ottawa fertility doctor whose licence was suspended for two months this spring because he artificially inseminated three patients with the wrong sperm, has had his Order of Canada terminated. A government release says the termination was done at Barwin's request.

Barwin's licence was suspended in January after the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons found he had committed an act of professional misconduct. He was publicly reprimanded and fined $3,650 to cover the cost of his hearing.

The hearing found that three children born to Barwin's patients between 1985 and 2007 were not biologically related to the men who had donated their sperm. "It is hard to imagine a more fundamental error in your former specialty than that of failing to impregnate the right woman with the right sperm," said disciplinary hearing chair William King at the time. "Your errors have condemned [the parents] to psychological and emotional pain and deprived the children of the ability to know their biological fathers."

Barwin was awarded the Order of Canada in 1996 for having a "profound impact" on women's reproductive health. At the time, he was lauded for his contributions to the Infertility Awareness Association of Canada and for helping the public, government and medical community understand the importance of the family unit in society.

Government regulations say an appointment to the Order of Canada can be terminated if a person commits a criminal offence or is "subject to official sanction, such as a fine or a reprimand, by an adjudicating body, professional association or other organization." Only five others have had their Order terminated.

Barwin, in his 70s, practises in Ottawa, but has not performed artificial inseminations since he voluntarily withdrew from the practice in February 2012. He could not be reached for comment Friday. (Andrea Hill)

According to court documents in 2014, Issaluk pleaded guilty to uttering a threat to cause death or serious bodily harm to a woman. He was sentenced to 15 months probation where he was ordered to attend counselling and abstain from drugs and alcohol. In February 2022, celebrated Inuk filmmaker Alethea Arnaquq-Baril posted lengthy social media posts on Twitter and Facebook alleging Issaluk had "fondled" her bum without permission at a party. She also posted that she had heard from other women who shared similar stories.

The Termination was effective 31 August 2022.
