Born in Palermo, Ontario, daughter of Dr. Anson Buck. She married Mr. Colin Campbell in 1884. She had been a member of the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire since 1908. She died at the age of 90 (1970), having dedicated more than 65 years of her life to social welfare. Mrs. Campbell was the first woman to hold office in the Children's Aid Society. She graduated from Wesleyan Women's college at Hamilton, Ontario. Mrs. Campbell was widely known for her efforts in social work, education and philanthropy. She was present at the 1897 Jubilee of Queen Victoria and the coronations of both Kings. An amazing woman, she raised $750,000 in 1914 for the IODE and helped to collect $58,000 in scholarship funds for sons and daughters of war veterans. While in Egypt in 1914 she raised $15,000 for a new YMCA headquarters. She rolled bandages for soldiers during the second Riel Rebellion. She also helped to operate a home for girls. Her husband, Mr. Colin Campbell was born in Burlington, Ontario on 25 December 1859. He was called to the Ontario bar in 1881 and the Manitoba bar in 18982. In 1900 he was appointed Attorney-General in the Manitoba Government and remained there until he resigned in ill health in 1913. He died the following year, 24 October 1914.

Ronald Arthur Travers, OBE

Whilst enjoying a drink with Ron in his study overlooking the Dart he told me that living on the Quay at Dittisham for so many years must be one of the greatest delights of living in Devon. He first came here on holiday some 45 years ago and has lived here now, with his wife Dilys, for most of the 42 years of their marriage. He had an idyllic childhood in Sussex, graduated from the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art and then embarked on two wonderfully enjoyable and very different careers.

After several years of working as an actor in repertory companies all over the country he then, in 1956, joined BBC Television where he produced the innovative and long running Z Cars after which, when BBC2 started, he produced Chaucer's Canterbury Tales and a season of contemporary plays, among them John Mortimer's A Voyage Around My Father. He also brought productions from the Edinburgh Festival and Stratford to the screen including All's Well that Ends Well which was the first Shakespeare play to be shown in colour on television. However, it was his production of The Six Wives of Henry Vlll that won him the much coveted International Prix Italia and the British Association of Film and Television Arts Special Award.

Whilst working as a producer at Television Centre, Ron realised that Wormwood Scrubs was just up the road and he recounted how, after a chance meeting with the prison chaplain, he found himself signing on as a Prison Visitor which he continued to do each week, for several years, on the wing for young offenders.

In 1970 Ron changed careers. I asked him why, as he had, by then, received all the accolades of which every producer dreams. He said that after a fairly heavy workload he felt he needed time to think about his future and decided to take a sabbatical. Having moved to the country he and his wife became volunteers at the local home for people with a disability. It was there that Dilys, who knew Leonard Cheshire the great pioneer in residential care, introduced him to Ron. The two men became great friends and before the sabbatical was up Ron had decided to work for Leonard who had asked him to be his Deputy and International Director. For nearly 25 years his work took him to 50 countries throughout the world, where he visited existing Cheshire Homes and set up new Homes. He says his most difficult assignments were in the USA, Japan, China and Russia. Over the years he has chaired many committees to further the cause of those with a disability and gave evidence to the Chronically Sick and Disabled Persons Bill which was steered through the Houses of Parliament by Alf Morris the world's first Minister for the Disabled. Ron also chaired the British Committee for Housing during The International Year of the Disabled in 1981. He talks with a passion about those early ground-breaking days but says there is still a long way to go, especially to help the families of those with a disability because, it is true to say, that if one member of the family is disabled then that whole family is disabled.

After his retirement in 1994 Ron was appointed OBE and became Vice President of the Leonard Cheshire Foundation and chaired the Foundation's Golden Jubilee celebrations. He is a Trustee of King's College London where, for 12 years, he chaired its Student Welfare Services Committee and was presented with a Lifetime Award in recognition of his work over the years in championing student welfare. He is a Trustee of Dimbleby Cancer Care and a Patron of the Robert Owen Communities for people with a learning disability.

Although leading such a busy life Ron talks with enthusiasm about taking part in many of the village activities in Dittisham. He has produced several pantomimes especially for the Youth Club and says that he finds working with young people fascinating. Many Village Days have seen his production experience come to the fore including village celebrations such as the VE Day Anniversary, The Queen's Golden Jubilee and the 100th anniversary of the founding of the village school. We talked about his faith, which he says is key to his whole life, and how much it means to be a communicant member of St George's Church and being licensed to administer the sacrament.

Many people living by the Dart will have enjoyed Ron's performances of An Evening of Noel Coward at the Flavel which opened the Dart Music Festival in 2007 and has since played to full houses. Ron is also President of The Ditsum Players and his advice and opinions are much sought after and as I left him he was about to have a meeting with Pat Heighway, its Chairman, to plan a production of the next village pantomime, Dick Whittington.

LG+ / CG	NAME	TITLE	POSITION	DECORATIONS /
20/08/2003	THORNTON, Allan	Mr	Chairman of the Environmental Investigation Agency	OBE
	"Services to protect the Environment"

Mr. Allan Thornton, The Chairman of the Environmental Investigation Agency (EIA) is being awarded the OBE "in recognition of his outstanding work to protect the environment."

Canadian-born Thornton is a co-founder of EIA, which covertly investigates environmental crimes including the illegal wildlife trade threatening endangered species, illegal logging, hazardous waste, and trade in climate and ozone-altering chemicals. Using pioneering techniques and undercover filming, its investigators work around the world in often dangerous circumstances to expose crime and use their evidence to campaign for changes in international law and the policy of governments.

Thornton began as a Greenpeace volunteer in Canada and in 1976 came to London, where he set up and was twice Executive Director of the British office of Greenpeace. He was also a co-founder of Greenpeace's flagship, The Rainbow Warrior.

Co-founding the Environmental Investigation Agency in 1984 with fellow activists Dave Currey and Jennifer Lonsdale, Thornton helped to pioneer the organisation's ground breaking approach to activism which continues to this day.

Among EIA's major successes are:

- Playing a vital role in securing the worldwide ban on the trade in ivory in 1989;
- Reducing the international trade in wild caught birds;
- Uncovering the largest poaching rhino horn operation in the world;
- Reducing the demand for whale and dolphin meat in Japan;
- Raising over £80,000 for Kaziranga National Park in India and providing equipment for the Kenyan Wildlife Service;

Turning global attention to the re-emerging illegal trade in big cat skins and exposing the trans-Himalayan trafficking routes for big cat body parts; Contributing to the closure of 53 illegal mines which were destroying prime tiger habitat in India.

Working from EIA's US office, which opened in Washington DC in 1989, Thornton spearheaded a lengthy campaign to ban imports of illegal timber. It was passed by the US Congress in June 2008, and the European Union followed suit this year with a ban due to be enacted in early 2013.

Thornton has worked for 35 years to protect the environment through highly strategic and focused campaigns which gather evidence to drive increased enforcement and protection for endangered habitats and species. "EIA will continue to fight to expose the crime lords behind illegal logging and the ivory trade, and all those profiteering from the ransacking of the environment," he vowed. "We have to do more to protect our beautiful world."

Canadian pianist Angela Hewitt was born in Ottawa, daughter of the Yorkshire-born Godfrey Hewitt (thus she also has British nationality) who was choirmaster at Christ Church Cathedral in Ottawa. She began piano studies at the age of three with her mother. She also studied violin with Walter Prystawski, recorder with Wolfgang Grunsky, and ballet with Nesta Toumine in Ottawa. Her first full-length recital was at the age of nine, in The Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, where she studied from 1964 to 1973 with Earle Moss and Myrtle Guerrero. She then went on to be the student of French pianist Jean-Paul Sevilla at the University of Ottawa.

Angela Hewitt has performed around the world in recital and as soloist with orchestra. She is most well known for her cycle of Bach recordings which she began in 1994 and finished in 2005—covering all the major keyboard works of J.S. Bach. Her recording of Bach's Art of Fugue was released on 17 October 2014. Her discography also includes works by Couperin, Rameau, Messiaen, Chabrier, Ravel, Schumann, Beethoven, Chopin, Debussy and Fauré. With the DSO Berlin and Lintu, she also recorded the Schumann Piano Concerto. She also has earned a scholarship at the age of five.

Angela Hewitt's entire 2007–2008 season was devoted to complete performances of Bach's The Well-Tempered Clavier in major cities all over the world. Her Hyperion DVD on Bach Performance on the Piano was released to coincide with the tour. In July 2005, Angela Hewitt launched the Trasimeno Music Festival in Umbria near Perugia of which she is Artistic Director.

David Martin's investiture as told by his wife Nancy Knowlton

Service and success in education

Dave's award was for services to education, and he is now an Officer of the Order of the British Empire. Allowing for some level of interpretation and elaboration (because there is no elaboration on the part of the government), this means for the raging success first for the SMART Board interactive whiteboard and second for the additional elements that SMART wrapped around the product. About 90% of UK classrooms have an interactive whiteboard, and a significant majority of those come from SMART.

A mysterious process

The whole process of receiving an OBE is quite quiet and, some would say, mysterious. Dave's first knowledge of the award came at the end of 2012 when he received a phone call asking if he were granted an award would he accept. You can imagine a certain level of skepticism about the legitimacy of such a call, but after Dave believed that it was indeed real, he accepted without hesitation.

After confirming with the Canadian government the acceptability of conferring the honor, Dave's award was announced on the Queen's Birthday Honours List in June. Dave had the opportunity to select from a number of dates and chose October 17. As it turns out, that was an historic date with Prince William, the Duke of Cambridge, performing his first investiture on the Queen's behalf.

Getting to the palace on time

All of the investees were entitled to bring three guests. Beyond me, Dave selected Nancy Macnab, Bye's CFO and SMART's first CFO, and Suzan Olsen, a long-time friend and the person who introduced us. We were invited to the palace for 10:00 a.m. to allow us a comfortable amount of time to get fully in place before the formal event started at 11:00 a.m.

Meeting the Duke of Cambridge

Dave was taken to a prep room for the investees to be instructed on how the event was to be conducted and how they were to engage with the Duke. We went to the ballroom where we were treated to some music while we awaited the formal event. Right on schedule the Duke and his guard entered the ballroom, and aside from saying "please be seated," the Duke reserved all of his comments for the honorees who entered one at a time for their personal recognition from the Duke.

It was clear in watching each of the presentations that the Duke was both well supported (an aide was providing whispered comments before the Duke greeted each recipient) and had prepared for the event. So much has been written about his ease of interacting with people, and we saw this time and again as he was animated and engaging with a broad cross section of people.

The view from inside Buckingham Palace

The event concluded just as it started - precisely and definitively. The gentle blinking of the lights in the ballroom confirmed our need to exit. We spent a little time outside the main entrance to the palace taking a few pictures inside the quadrangle that is hidden from the sight of tourists. We, particularly Dave, savored the walk out in front of the always-present tourists as we left the inner courtyard. After one last look at Buckingham Palace from outside the gates, we moved along to our celebratory lunch with family, friends and business colleagues. Quite the experience.

Until a few years ago Malbert says he would have 'hesitated' to call himself a curator. When he joined the Arts Council - which then ran Hayward Gallery and the Serpentine - the given nomenclature for exhibition-making staff was 'organizers.' Based at 105 Piccadilly, the entire art department of about 25 people would meet on Monday mornings before dashing off to their respective institutions to install shows. Programming was determined by quarterly meetings of a sub-committee composed of regional museum directors, artists and 'a slightly random collection' of others.
