CITATIONS TO THE MERITORIOUS SERVICE CROSS (Civil) (MSC)

BOWDEN, William

Charge d'Affaires - Kuwait Embassy
Gulf War

MSC

CG: 18 April 1992

DOI: 02 August 1990 - 03 March 1991

"As the Charge d'Affaires at the Canadian Embassy in Kuwait, Mr. Bowden demonstrated exceptional leadership and selflessness during the Kuwait crisis. His overriding concern was for the safety of the Canadian staff and community. In the face of great uncertainty, Mr. Bowden courageously volunteered to remain in Kuwait beyond the Iraqi deadline to evacuate. Until the Embassy closed in October he ensured the organization and full functioning of the warden system. At risk to his own safety, he personally ventured into neighbourhoods under attack, searching for isolated Canadians. He facilitated the logistical support for the evacuation flight and, while he and his staff were confined to the Chancery by hostile troops, sheltered in his own home Canadians requiring care."

MacDOUGALD, Eoin

Calgary born Architect - Kuwait
Aid to Foreign Nationals caught in Kuwait during the Gulf War

MSC

Kuwait

CG: 18 April 1992

DOI: 02 August 1990 - 03 March 1991

"When Embassy operations became more restricted after it was sequestered by the Iraqi military, Mr. MacDougald, a Canadian businessman and consular warden, assumed effective control of the Canadian warden system. Although he faced questioning at the Iraqi checkpoints on numerous occasions, Mr. MacDougald courageously and selflessly continued to come to the aid of civilians in the international community. Working closely with foreign nationals in hiding, he organized daily distribution of food, money and medical aid to those in need. He helped organize a mail system for those held in Kuwait. He also organized assistance for the Canadian and American evacuation flights."

DUSSAULT, Bernard

His Excellency
Canadian Ambassador to Haiti

MSC

CG: 12 June 1993

GH: 23 November 1992

DOI: 1991

"Canadian Ambassador to Haiti, Mr. Dussault provided exceptional leadership during the 1991 coup d'état in that country. Despite limited communications, rationing of all energy sources and the constant threat of violence, he ensured the continued operation of the Canadian Embassy in Port-au-Prince. He also maintained contact with a variety of groups involved in the crisis, including the different diplomatic missions."

Bernard spent his career at the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade in Ottawa with several different appointments, notably as Canadian ambassador to Gabon, Haiti, Rwanda, and Somalia, as well as High Commissioner to Kenya and Uganda. Born in 1942, he died in 2011:

Laird Forbes Rankin, MSC

Laird Rankin passed away suddenly on June 19, 2017. He was born December 5, 1940 in Winnipeg. He is survived by his former wife, Lynn; sons, Scott (Toni Wu) of Austin, TX and Matthew of Montreal; and his sister, Elizabeth (Buff) Mills of Dundas, Ontario. He was predeceased by his father Forbes, in 1965, and mother, Eyleen, in 2000. Laird was educated in Winnipeg schools and graduated from the University of Manitoba with two Bachelor's degrees; Arts, in 1962; Commerce, in 1964. At university, he was active in the Arts Student Body Council and Phi Delta Theta Fraternity. Following graduation, he joined the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce and worked for that organization for two and one half years. In October, 1967, he joined the Hudson's Bay Company to help implement events to commemorate the Company's 300th anniversary. His chief responsibility was organizing and managing the summer tours of the Nonsuch - a replica of the sailing ship whose voyage in 1668 led to the Company's founding in 1670 - and bringing the vessel to Winnipeg for installation in the Manitoba

Museum. In 1975, he became Executive Director of the Alumni Association of the University of Manitoba and Editor of the Alumni Journal (now On Manitoba), dual positions he held for 19 years before becoming the founding Executive Director of Canada's National History Society in 1994. He became publisher of the Society's magazine, The Beaver, (now Canada's History) in 1997. He retired in 2004. Laird enjoyed an active community life, having served in volunteer capacities with the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce, the United Way, the Manitoba Historical Society, the Manitoba Magazine Publishers Association and, most recently, the Winnipeg Arts Council, which designated him Chair Emeritus in May, 2016, in recognition of services rendered during his decade on its board. Among other honours, Laird was presented with the Meritorious Service Cross, M.S.C., (Civilian Division) in 2000, by Governor General Adrienne Clarkson, to recognize his work in establishing the Governor General's Award for Excellence in Teaching Canadian History, a national program to honour Canada's best history teachers.

Laird was the author or co-author of five books, a journalist and, for a period, a free-lance broadcaster with CBC Radio. His first book, The Nonsuch, was published in 1974 and revised and reissued in 2004 as The Return of the Nonsuch. His articles and reviews appeared in a number of local, regional, and national publications. At Laird's request, cremation has taken place and there will be no service. Instead, donations in Laird's memory would be appreciated to either The Winnipeg Foundation, 1350-1 Lombard Place, Winnipeg, Manitoba R3B 0X3, in favour of the Winnipeg Arts Council Agency Fund; or, to the Manitoba Museum, 190 Rupert Avenue, Winnipeg, Manitoba R3B 0N2, in favour of the Nonsuch Gallery. "I cannot pretend I am without fear. But my predominant feeling is one of gratitude. I have loved and been loved. I have been given much and I have given something in return; I have read and travelled and thought and written. I have had intercourse with the world, the special intercourse of writers and readers. Above all I have been a sentient being, a thinking animal, on this beautiful planet. And that in itself has been an enormous privilege and adventure." - Oliver Sacks Bardal Funeral Home, 843 Sherbrook Street, Winnipeg in charge of arrangements.

"Mr. Jaafar, a Kuwaiti businessman, provided an extraordinary service to the Canadian Embassy and community in Kuwait during the crisis. At great risk to himself, he was responsible for providing a portable generator and ongoing deliveries of food to the Canadian Embassy until it was surrounded by troops. He offered safe hiding for Canadian nationals and embassy staff. In response to these humanitarian acts, Mr. Jaafar was arrested and subjected to extremely difficult and physical and psychological conditions by the Iraqi forces."

"Ms. Wilson played a pivotal role in managing and directing the unprecedented relief operation in aid of hundreds of thousands of Rwandan refugees. During 1993 and 1994, she was Head of Delegation of the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies of Tanzania. Her leadership, dedication and courage, as well as her considerable experience in international humanitarian operations, enabled the global community to meet one of its most daunting challenges ever."

SHEILA WILSON

Sheila Wilson's work has taken her all over the map — literally. She has volunteered with international organizations on four continents and practised in refugee camps, war zones and on an oil rig. The Scottish-born Wilson came to Newfoundland and Labrador 36 years ago as a midwife after hearing a talk by a nurse who had recently come back from working with the International Grenfell Association in Labrador. "It inspired me," she says.

Since then, Wilson has worked throughout the province in diverse roles. "People don't realize how many different types of nursing there are out there to plug into. As an RN, I've found it's amazing what you can do."

Wilson is always eager to take on new challenges. One of the biggest was setting up the world's largest refugee camp as head of the International Red Cross emergency response to the influx of 250,000 Rwandans into neighbouring Tanzania in 1994. For several years before that, she had found herself on the front lines of other emergency disaster relief efforts in east African countries including Ethiopia, Sudan and Somalia. More recently, she was involved in providing aid to North Koreans during a severe famine.

Wilson's work for humanitarian organizations has won her numerous awards and earned her invitations to speak to various groups, including young nurses considering similar work abroad. "As I always say, it's the humanitarian values that draw you in, but the people that keep you coming back. In so many places there are such appalling conditions of poverty and oppression, yet the people find the strength to keep their dignity and carry on. They show such gratitude."

Nevertheless, Wilson tries to paint as realistic a picture as possible of conflict situations. "If you're not scared, then something's wrong," she says. She stresses that you have to learn the basics about the culture and customs of the region where you're going. "Awareness is what allows us to continue to work in these places. As a white woman, especially in a management position, going into a male-dominated Islamic society, I have a responsibility to present myself appropriately. If I were to run around in shorts and a T-shirt, I'd upset some people."

Even with all her work overseas, Wilson and her husband, who has also managed international aid programs overseas, have been able to maintain a presence in their home province. At the one-nurse clinic on the northern Labrador coast where she works full time, Wilson sees patients with chronic diseases as well as emergencies. She also controls medications, handles all the paperwork and is responsible for overall management of a team that works very closely with the community. "Every day is different," she says. "I'm on 24-7 so I need to be aware and try to pace myself."

Wilson is happy to stay put for now but is thinking ahead and doesn't rule out the possibility of another overseas assignment in the future. She admits it's hard sometimes to watch events unfold on TV and not feel compelled to respond to obvious human tragedies. "I'm always being asked to go here or there, and one of these days I'll probably jump ship," she says. "Now that I'm in outpost in Labrador I'm fully committed to that. I love it. It's a great place, and it's a fantastic scope of practice."

She enjoys the solitude of living by the water and spending time outdoors, walking, snowshoeing and taking in the colours, smells and feel of nature. "I love the coast of Labrador — and its wonderful people. I started here and now I'm back, so it's full circle for me."
