His Wife

Selina Adine Bridgeman was born on 24 June 1886. She married, firstly, Captain Hon. Lawrence Ughtred Kay-Shuttleworth, on 1 February 1913.

She married, secondly, MGen William Birchall Macaulay King, on 31 January 1920.

She was the daughter of Brig.-Gen. Hon. Francis Charles Bridgeman and Gertude Cecilia Hanbury. From 1 February 1913, her married name became Kay-Shuttleworth. From 31 January 1920, her married name became King.

Children of Selina Adine Bridgeman and Captain Hon. Lawrence Ughtred Kay-Shuttleworth:

1. F/O Richard Ughtred Paul Kay-Shuttleworth, 2nd Baron Shuttleworth
b. 30/10/1913, d. 8/08/1940

3. Ronald Orlando Lawrence Kay-Shuttleworth, 3rd Baron Shuttleworth

In the London Gazette of 06 December 1935, she changed her name from Selina Adine Shuttleworth-King to the Honourable Selina Adine Kay-Shuttleworth. Perhaps this was to take advantage of her former husband's father's title.

After practising law in Edmonton for twelve years, he joined the Canadian Army in 1915 and became the Judge Advocate General for Canada in 1918. He was a member of the Canadian delegation to the Versailles Peace Conference in 1918-19. In derogation to standard practice, Colonel Biggar, then Parliamentary Counsel of the House of Commons, was designated in the Elections Act as the first holder of the office, a feature that suggests that his appointment may have been part and parcel of an all-party package. His salary was made equal to that of a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, a position that at that time commanded a salary of $12,000. Ironically, Biggar quit in 1927 after having supervised three general elections, because he expected to make even more money by moving to the lucrative practice of patent law. To this day, he remains the only Chief Electoral Officer having a legal background.

* First Canadian Born Officer to become Chief of the General Staff
 ** establish links of perpetuation from the units of Canadian Expeditionary Force back to the institutionally separate units of the Canadian Militia in the years following the First World War. This establishment of perpetuation, based primarily on geographical connections through original recruiting areas of the CEF battalions, provided a basis by which the achievements and battle honours of the CEF units transferred back to the units of the standing Militia. Without this work of the Otter Commission the CEF and its achievements would have had no continuance with existing units of the Canadian Army today

The Militia Act was changed in October 1900 to allow senior officers to become full Colonels.
